Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 1600 on Friday 03 Dec 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Showery on Saturday, most brighter later.

This Evening and Tonight:
A dry start in the east evening otherwise cloudy with showers or longer spells of rain spreading from the west, the rain more persistent over Argyll and Lochaber, and increasingly falling as snow on the hills overnight.

Saturday:
Rather cloudy at first with showers or longer spells of rain, slowly clearing east. Then brighter with a few showers, the south becoming drier.

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Mainly dry, cold and bright on Sunday. Rather cold and unsettled early next week with rain and , mainly on high ground, snow at times. Gales on Tuesday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.